

Australian lawyers hit the NY Bar

(continued from p1)

Applications for the July sitting closed last week, but for those who are keen to add the New York Bar to their list of qualifications it is never too early to start preparing for the February sittings, according to Melbourne University law graduate Sarah Krasnostein.

Twenty-five year-old Krasnostein has been preparing for the July exams since December, before she had officially graduated, and has found the process to be thoroughly beneficial. She said the program has proven to be the ideal complement to her law degree, and has helped her consolidate the knowledge acquired during her previous five years of study.

"It's kind of like the greatest hits of the law degree," she said. "If you didn't understand something in contracts but you still managed to get through, this really makes you revisit the main points. It's a really good synthesis of the ideology."

Krasnostein was attracted to the New York Bar Review by its 90 per cent pass rate and the fact that the program's lecturer has been training Bar candidates for over 30 years. "He truly knows how to get you to the pass stage," she said.

The program is squarely aimed at filling the gaps that Australian law students would find in their knowledge when looking at the New York Bar system, she continued, something students would find very daunting on their own.

"The Bar tests New York law and multi-state law. With multi-state law you have to know the difference between the common law and different legislative reforms – if I was doing this by myself I would be out of my mind," she said.

Krasnostein did not have to dive straight into the Bar exams, or the preparation for that matter (many applicants do only a month of preparation before successfully sitting the exam). She had obtained a place on Sullivan & Cromwell's nine-month foreign lawyers program, and will undertake her articles with Mallesons Stephen Jaques in 2007. But rather than use her year off to go travelling, she decided to use her time in a way that would more directly benefit her career.

"I wanted to do something that would look really good on my [resume]," she says. "I thought I might as well spend this year studying." Krasnostein is originally from Washington, DC but has been in Australia for 12 years, and completed her high school and university studies here. She had always been attracted to the New York Bar as her father and grandfather both passed the exams, and the challenge of tackling an exam with the reputation for being the hardest also appealed.

When she first heard about the New York Bar Review, she contacted Beatrice O'Brien, the Review's founder and president of Attorney Placements International, and was quickly convinced that passing the exams was something she could achieve. The program's clear approach to tackling the exams took the fear out of the prospect, Krasnostein said.

She started 'attending' American lectures online and four months down the track is confident that she will pass the exams in July. "They take into account that not everybody has been to an American law school and it really crystallises the law," she said.

Email NYBar at info@nybar.com.au and Attorney Placements International LLC at info@AttorneyPlacementsInt.com

Opinion

Leader	12
Dianne Beer, Holding Redlich	12
Stephen Argument, Phillips Fox	13

Education and training report

Continuing Legal Education	14
----------------------------	----

Feature

Sydney Graduate Law Careers Fair	17
----------------------------------	----

Departments

Cases & legislation	28
Get a life	30
Folklaw	32
Classifieds	33

in this issue

Mahlab

THE LEADER IN LEGAL RECRUITMENT

PRIVATE PRACTICE

Sydney - Construction

Work with the best! 3-5 year lawyer with both front and back end experience sought by top tier firm. Good drafting skills and project experience desirable. EB3221

Melbourne - Corporate/Finance

Corporate/finance lawyer with 4-6 years experience sought for this mid tier firm. Excellent corporate finance/securities experience and good technical drafting and negotiating skills required. MD8923

Brisbane - Energy & Resources

This recognised national leader requires a Senior Associate/Senior Counsel to work across electricity, oil, gas and coal areas. Diverse and challenging work, great partnership opportunities. MH3590

Sydney - Financial Services

High calibre 2-3 year financial services lawyer sought by top tier firm for high profile funds, managed investments and equity products work. RG2045

Melbourne - Construction

2-6 year front and/or back end construction lawyer sought to work with major construction companies in this leading firm. Strong drafting, negotiating and advisory skills a must. AM9159

Canberra - Corporate/M&A

Lawyers with 2-5 years experience required to join the M&A team of this top tier firm in Canberra. Corporate/commercial transaction and advisory experience essential. MD8605

PARTNERS

Sydney - ER/IR Partner

Rare opportunity to join highly regarded practice and bring your ER/IR practice. Work with leading professionals in a dynamic environment and help develop the business. JG3653

Melbourne - Property Partner

Progressive national partnership seeking a commercial property partner with an institutional property investment client base to join their dynamic and growing commercial property team. AN9172

MARKETING

Canberra - Marketing Coordinator

Join this leading professional services provider. The key function of this role is to assist with developing and implementing client relationship programs. Tertiary education and marketing experience required. LA9174

INTERNATIONAL

London - General Corporate

Join the international firm that has played a pivotal role in many high profile corporate transactions. Excellent 2-4 year lawyer sought for challenging cross-border work. EB2872

Hong Kong - Corporate/M&A

Magic Circle firm seeks 3-6 year corporate/M&A lawyer. Your work will involve considerable exposure to major China related transactions. You must be fluent in Mandarin. NP9184

Dubai - Banking & Finance

Premier global firm requires hot shot 3-5 year banking & finance lawyer for frontier work with thriving and dynamic Dubai practice. Excellent conditions offered. RG3956

London - Structured Finance

Magic Circle firm seeks lawyers with 2-5 years experience to work on structuring and implementing transactions in securitisations, structured products, derivatives and tax-driven schemes. NP9182

Frankfurt - Banking

Work in the finance department of this Magic Circle firm, providing transactional and advisory assistance to investment banks, both international and domestic. Top remuneration. NP9182

Jakarta - Corp/Comm/Resources

Top tier firm seeks bright and proactive lawyer with 5+ years corporate/commercial and/or resources experience for frontier work with a premier client in Jakarta. MH4053

CORPORATE

Melbourne & Sydney - Corporate Lawyers

This leading financial institution with global operations is seeking two assistant level lawyers with derivatives, debt capital markets and structured finance experience for its wholesale banking operations. Lawyers with corporate/commercial law experience will also be considered. Excellent opportunity to progress your career in-house with a market leader. AC9181

Sydney - Commercial Lawyer

International professional services organisation seeks motivated 2-3 year commercial lawyer for its in-house legal team. You will draft and review contracts and advise on corporate law matters. Superior communication skills essential. RL4032

Melbourne - 6 month Contract

This role at a leading listed company will suit a lawyer with at least 3 years experience, ideally with procurement and IT exposure. Lawyers with quality commercial law experience will also be considered. NP9170

Sydney
02 9241 1199
syd@mahlab.com.au

Melbourne
03 9629 2111
melb@mahlab.com.au

REGISTER FOR MAHLAB JOB ALERT
www.mahlab.com.au